

Engineering News Record

February 24, 1997

Page C2

Spotlight on Technology-Driven Collaborative Engineering

In this article focusing on interactive operations and highly collaborative processes, DPR is spotlighted as a company that is leading the way. "Our goal is to have any piece of information from estimating to design to construction available on the web in a format that eliminates the need for project participants to frantically send faxes or spend money on overnight mail and couriers," says Paul Nobbs, DPR's head of technology.