

Engineering News Record;

June 9, 1997

Page- C11

DPR Construction's Technology-Aggressive Stance Delivers New Business

DPR has been investigating and testing systems that can provide electronic collaboration between project participants, including systems based on groupware and the Web. Through these systems, DPR managers, design firms, owners, and subcontractors can exchange relevant information with each other. This commitment to electronic collaboration appealed to Stanford who selected DPR as general contractor for their Graduate School of Business addition.