

San Francisco Business Times - Fast Track Quarterly

November 5, 1998

Page 22

DPR's tools for success don't include the corporate ladder

Described as the "Speedy Gonzales" of growing construction companies in the San Francisco Bay Area, DPR Construction attributed much of their success to not having the ubiquitous corporate ladder. The eight-year old company has eliminated the use of titles that distinguish various levels of authority, creating an organization that is flatter, more flexible, and more efficient.